Class Action
Washington, DC 20260-4100

Dear Brian:

Recently, our representatives met at the Interpretive Step to discuss case number Q06N-4Q-C 11377406 related to the alternate city letter carrier assignment test. Time limits were extended by mutual consent. This case is resolved as follows:

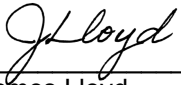

The parties agree that the Casers/Deliverers test concluded, and the data collection and testing did not involve or result in any changes to current work measurement systems, work or time standards.

The parties agree that the data collection and testing conducted pursuant to the Casers/Deliverers test did not result in any permanent changes to the current route structure or route evaluation and/or adjustment process in the city letter carrier craft.

Accordingly, the parties agree to close this case without prejudice to the position of either party in this or any other matter.

All cases held pending resolution of this national dispute shall be reviewed for application of this resolve and any remaining issues should be subsequently resolved in accordance with the collective bargaining agreement.

Sincerely,

James Lloyd
